ENGLISH LANGUAGE PROGRESS REPORT

PLAYER NAME: Alexander Ehlers
AGE: 15
VENUE: Charterhouse School
DATES: 1st Aug 22 - 14th Aug 22
CLASS LEVEL: C1

WEEKLY TEST SCORE: 96.00%

WEEKLY FOCUS:

This week we have studied a range of different topics. We focused on functional phrases in relation to the skills and qualities of a professional player, where students developed their ability to describe themselves and their attributes through self-analysis. We learned about different body parts, and looked at how professionals train their bodies to minimise injury. To finish the week, we broadened our knowledge of places and directions by designing our own iconic stadium!

SKILLS + ACHIEVEMENTS:

Alexander has progressed a lot during his time on the course. He has improved his confidence using English, especially in a communicative and expressive manner. Alexander has demonstrated his ability to produce well-constructed sentences that communicate meaning effectively. He has also shown great retention of key words and vocabulary related to health, nutrition, and sport.

PERSONAL EFFORT + PARTICIPATION:

Alexander was a pleasant student who worked well individually and with his classmates. He was willing to take part in classroom activities and frequently put himself forward to answer questions. His contributions to class discussions were valued by me and his classmates.

AREAS TO FOCUS ON:

For his age, Alexander is a very competent user of English. He should be very pleased with his language abilities. His communicative competence would allow him to communicate in a large variety of situations without communication breakdowns. He has shown promise in class; therefore, he should reflect on this learning experience and think about the things he did well and remember how he used his English effectively in class and with his fellow players. I would also recommend that he review the content we did in class and implement these new words into his active vocabulary.

FINAL COMMENTS:

It was great to have Alexander in the class this week, he became a valued member of the class who was liked a lot by his peers. His competence and confidence have thoroughly improved, so he should continue the great work to keep learning more. Well done, see you next year!
